July 2013: The Executive Director Of The Christian Family Coalition Said That The Miami-Dade County Commission Wanted To “Pass A Dangerous Law That Will Force All Places To Open Bathrooms And Dressing Rooms To ‘Transsexuals.’”

According to the Miami New Times, “While Miami-Dade residents are gearing up to celebrate American Independence, the Christian Family Coalition is making sure one group of people don't get to enjoy life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. In response to a proposed amendment to the county's human rights ordinance that would protect transgender folks from discrimination, Coalition executive director Anthony Vedrugo is rallying his Holier-Than-Thou band of racists to show up for the commission's Health & Social Services Committee hearing on July 8 when the measure will be discussed publicly. Vedrugo fired off emails on Wednesday to his ‘Christian’ brothers and sisters, warning them the Miami-Dade County Commission ‘wants to pass a dangerous law that will force all places to open bathrooms and dressing rooms to ‘transsexuals.’” [Miami New Times, 7/4/13] The Christian Family Coalition Filed An Amicus Brief With The Supreme Court Of The United States Arguing That Employers Should Be Able To Discriminate Against Their Employees For Being Transgender Or Gay. According to Florida Politics, “The [Christian Family] Coalition also filed a legal brief at the Supreme Court siding in a case with employers who want the right to fire employees for being gay or transgender.” [Florida Politics, 12/4/19]
